Describe your personality and character:	I am a hard-working individual with ambition to fulfill my potential. I have high moral standards and believe in staying true to my personal integrity in all situations. I am friendly, enjoy meeting new people, experiencing new things and have a great sense of adventure. I love to spend time outdoors. I am a steward of the environment, both in my architectural design and in my day to day life.
How would you describe your childhood?	My childhood was spent running around barefoot in the countryside, turning over rocks, collecting salamanders and toads. I loved anything to do with science or nature. My dad gave me my strong work ethic and my mother gave me a sense of compassion.
What's your favorite childhood memory?	My favorite childhood memory is spending time at our annual family reunion. Each year, it's held at my grandmother's house in the country, which is set on 30 acres of land. About 80 of my relatives would be there every year and we would stay late into the night. I would run around with my 8 cousins and catch fireflies in the summer evening. It was magical and delightful in a way that I haven't experienced since.
Who has been the most influential person in your life, and why?	The most influential person in my life has been my father. He was in the Army, put himself through college and became a computer engineer of his own volition. He provided me with the emotional and financial support to succeed in High school, undergrad and graduate school. He has taught me that working hard is the only path to success. He has taught me right and wrong and how to act like an upstanding individual in all aspects of my life; whether that be never being late for appointments, volunteering my time for good causes or to challenge myself to be the greatest person I can be.
What awards/accomplishments	I am most proud of the Masters degree in Architecture I received in June. I have put so much effort and time in to
